Mr. Heng Qi is a famous photographer and one of the Top 10 photojournalist in China. He has been a senior photographer with the world's famous Xinhua News Agency for 16 years.

His photography career has taken him around the world. Since 2005, Heng Qi has been based in Xinhua's Los Angeles Bureau. In three short years, he has visited many American States published over 10,000 photographs in top newspapers, magazines and websites throughout China and the world.

Heng Qi's photos from America have helped shape the way people in the world see and understand the United States of America.

Mr. Heng Qi has selected 400 emblematic works for this exhibition. He plans for the current exhibition of photographic works "Images of America (2005-2007)" to be the first part of an on-going larger photographic work.

This larger photographic project will be an exploration of different landscapes, cultures, and people -- all seen through the fresh perspective and vision of a professional Chinese photographer.

This is a "big picture" of America, as seen from the streets and plains of the USA, and from China..
